

California Street Name Lookup

While geocoding, a major cause of errors is misspelled street names. This tool provides a current list of street names in California that you can look up by street name, ZIP Code, or postal city. This download includes a SQLite database (streets.db) and a Python script (streetzip.py) for accessing this database.

Download streetzip (zipped file) here:

<http://egis3.lacounty.gov/dataportal/2016/09/14/california-street-name-lookup/>

- Download and extract streetzip_pydb.zip to your local hard drive.
- Navigate to that folder and look for a file streetzip.py. (Python needs to be installed.)
- Create a shortcut to streetzip.py, and put that shortcut on your desktop.
- That's it. You're ready to use it.

How to Use Streetzip.py

Double-clicking your shortcut opens up the Windows Console. First, it asks you for the ZIP Code. This example uses ZIP Code 90210 (like the 1990s TV show).

streetzip
This program asks you for the ZIP Code, street name, and the city.
You can enter all or part of any of these categories.
Blank entries return everything.
Enter Zip Code: 90210
```

Leaving the other questions blank assumes you want everything.

C:\myfiles\utils\street_name_lookup\dist\streetzip\streetzip.exe

This program asks you for the ZIP Code, street name, and the city.
You can enter all or part of any of these categories.
Blank entries return everything.

Enter Zip Code: 90210
Enter Part of Street Name:
Enter Part of City:
```

After your last entry, you get a list of streets in alphabetical order:

streetlist.txt - Notepad
File Edit Format View Help
Your search: Street = 'Any', City = 'Any', ZIP Code = '90210'
